Somewhere over the rainbow

I'm sure you know the story but just in case...

The story of Noah is God asking Noah to build an Ark because there will be a great flood. Everyone thinks he's nuts, but he chooses to do as God has asked. The floods came and those who listened to God were saved along with many animals etc. and those that didn't perished. After 40 days the rain subsides and the story continues in Genesis 7 if you want to read it properly. But as a sign of peace and the promise he will not flood the world again, a rainbow appears in the sky.

I'm sure as you read this, you will have all sorts of questions, but today, during Lent, a time of waiting and reflecting which can for some of us be painful. During a time for repenting perhaps, which literally comes from the Greek 'metanoia' meaning a change of mind, i.e. I know the things I've done are wrong and now I want to re-orientate my life for good, during this time I'm drawn to the question of why God chose a rainbow as his sign to say the earth would no longer be flooded.

This story has so many layers to it but ultimately it's a story of salvation, that there is a way out of the hurt and destruction. Jesus of course is the Ark by which we are saved in the New Testament but I think there is something here for those who are suffering and struggling with the waves of life crashing around them generally.

So why does God choose a rainbow as a sign of his promise of faithfulness off the back of some of the greatest suffering in the bible?

Well, rain is often used as an image of suffering in the bible.... i.e. the flood or Jesus speaking about the wise builders building their house on the rock for when the rains come. i.e. the bad times.

Rainbows are made when the rains fall and the sun comes out and shines into each drop... and as it enters the rain drop it refracts the light, and out of the drops the beauty and colours of a rainbow are shone.

So here's a thought... Is it possible that in the midst of God's promise to mankind to be faithful... at the point of great suffering... there is a promise that God, being the light of the world will shine into our storms and trials and will not only enter into our suffering but will make it into something so beautiful one day we will look at it and say there he is....

In this time of waiting... you are not alone... God is shining a light into our circumstances and creating something beautiful. He promises to you that he is faithful and in this lent period particularly... we wait to see the true fulfilment of his faithfulness in his going to a cross and his true expression of transforming the darkness of our storms, the darkness of a crucifixion and flooding into our circumstance the light and joy of the resurrected Jesus Christ.

I do like rainbows!

It has been a busy term for us in Badger Class!

On Wednesday 17 January 2024, a group from Leeds and Broomfield Primary School went to Young Voices at the O2, it took an hour to get there. When we were there we had to practice our songs for 4 hours, which was a bit annoying, but worth it in the end. After practicing, many of our parents came to watch the big performance, there were over 8000 children, so it was very crowded! We sung lots of songs, our favourite was 'pop melody'.

Tuesday 6 February saw us go on a trip to Leeds Castle to look at Rivers - we visited 3 sites and measured the speed of the current at each point. The day was really fun and a good opportunity to learn about rivers.

Year 6 had a really fun afternoon on Friday 9 February, at the church to learn about bell ringing. We got the opportunity to ring the bells and to look at them up close. We were amazed at how big they were; they were very loud too, it nearly broke our ear drums! We're looking forward to trying bell ringing again soon!

LEEDS CASTLE

Spring is definitely on its way! Snowdrops are now out across the estate along with the first daffodils. Soon, spring flowering plants will be coming out in the Culpeper, Pavilion and Lady Baillie Mediterranean Gardens, the clocks will be changing & the long anticipated better weather will be here.

I hope that many of you had the chance to visit over February Half Term when we ran a fun Butler Games event, with a treasure hunt, 'butler training' games and a magical finale.

Easter is extra early this year and we will be putting on a special Easter event from 29 March to 14 April. There will be an Easter treasure hunt, helping Lady Baillie's Great Danes, Boots and Danny, to find their lost treasure. This will include interactive installations, vibrant Easter floral displays & fiendish clues to solve, as well as encounters with live characters.

Also coming up this year are a number of major events included in your admission ticket, which is valid for twelve months. These include the Queens Joust, (25-27 May), the long awaited return of Motors by the Moat (10-11 August), a new Sculpture Trail (26 August to 6 October) and the magical 2024 Christmas Castle experience, the Nutcracker. (23 November to 31 December 2024).

The Leeds Castle Weddings Showcase takes place on 2/3 March, ideal for anyone who is considering getting married over the next couple of years.

If you are planning a wedding, dinner or corporate function with us, we now have five new caterers available, giving a great choice of prices and menu types, from formal sit downs to tapas and BBQs.

For the day visit and overnight, we have a new catering partner, Graysons, who have introduced a much better coffee offer as well as creative new lunch, dinner and day visitor menus. Hope you can give them a try soon!

We have now completed the work to replace failed water pipes on Castle Island and will be re-connecting to the estate bore hole during March. We have also installed the new purpose-built ramp to the entrance to the Castle to provide a better experience for visitors with mobility problems.

We have been successful in securing a grant from National Lottery Heritage Fund to help with business resilience. Like most other heritage charities, Leeds Castle has not seen all of our pre-pandemic visitors return and has also experienced a 450% rise in energy bills.

The grant monies are supporting work to help us reduce energy use & explore options for generating our own energy, a full access audit, so we can welcome more people with access issues, a review of Hospitality strategy and a Project Manager role to help develop conservation & audience development projects for external fundraising.

LADS have a “Beauty”-ful hit

Leeds Amateur Dramatic Society had another hit on their hands with their panto production of Beauty & the Beast by Tom Whalley. They put on three performances over the first weekend in February to packed audiences. The Panto marked Helen Apps' directorial debut and it went down a storm with the audience.

Belle was played Hrisi Gyurestova & she certainly lived up to her title as beauty. She was pursued by Franque and his sidekick Clochard, played with aplomb by Boris Dimitrov & Jack Brain respectively. Their antics raised a lot of laughs. The local villager girls wanted Franque for themselves but were to be let down. The villagers were played by Sara Greasley, Chloe Silk, Xiana Zylstra and Lucy Saunders (all first time panto actors) and they also had to transform into wolves to attack Belle's Papa (Paul Homewood). He was a bumbling genius who had to send his beloved daughter to the castle of the Beast.

The Prince, played by panto debutant Carley Compaan, was put under a spell by the evil wizardess, Sacre Bleu. Her role was played by Emily Wheelhouse who was able to conjure up an evil persona for the crowds to boo. The spell turned the prince into a beast, played to great effect by Mel Comins. Papa wanted to rescue Belle from the clutches of the beast and roped in his friend Nanny Nightnurse (Paul Cordier) her cracker obsessed son, Brie (Lesley Finlay) and Brie's put upon sidekick Petite Filous played by the loveable Kieran Wallace.

The three of them made their way, to the imposing castle. They were aided by the spirit of the mirror played wonderfully by Astrid Finlay who stepped in at the very last minute due to our resident fairy, Sue Finnis, being unable to appear.

At the castle they were met by the staff, all of whom had been turned into objects by the spell, Fourchette (Kim Richards) was the cook, Poivre & Sale (Pepper & Salt pots) were played by Bella Lagden & Megan Wallace, and Culliere & Petit Culliere (Spoons) were played by Heaven Lea & Kristian Gyurestova. The castle was guarded by another LADS newcomer, Ian Seath as Epee the sword who was brave until chased by the man-eater Nanny. The cutlery wanted Belle to see the best in the Beast & they all encouraged their romance. It was a panto so despite the puns and corny jokes there was a happy ending. The story was punctuated by various songs and dances. Once again Kieren sang his heart out and Boris & Jack's double act continued into song. The crowd seemed to love the show and even managed to put up with Nanny, Epee and Papa's singing!

As always there is an awful lot of work going behind the scenes (literally in this case). The set & prop builders, Paul Cordier & Scott Lagden, Set designers & painters Jane Cowen & Anne Renal, Costumes Mel Comins & Tracie Carslund, Sound & lighting by the Fairy Godfather Scott Lagden, Hair by Gemma Wallace & makeup by Nicki Humbles (both assisted by Jane Cowens & Carly Compaan). Jane Newsome was the prompt & with Gloria & Duncan Irvine sorted refreshments & Laylah Casey was the runner.

Thank you all for your continued support for LADS. See you in the summer for Plays & Pantomimes.

Paul Cordier

Update from Helen Whately

Education is the closest thing we have to a silver bullet. It might be a cliché in politics, but it's one which still holds true. Investing in people is the single best thing we can do to improve the world around us.

It spawns the doctors, engineers, and business people of tomorrow. It lights a spark in people who go on to change our lives for the better. And it gives people lots of the tools they need to navigate life.

That's why of all the things we've achieved in government since I became an MP, our record on education is the thing I'm most proud of. At the last Budget school spending increased to its highest real terms ever – across both primary and secondary education. This is great news for schools and pupils, but it's only half of the equation. What matters most isn't what you're putting in, it's what you're getting out.

The fairest way to measure this is generally through international comparison. Grade inflation makes it tricky to compare UK figures year-on-year, but how we match up globally can't be fudged.

Since 2010 England has flown up every international league table – for science, for maths, for reading. Children in England are now the most literate in Europe, and the fourth most literate in the world.

That hasn't happened by accident. It's thanks to a huge programme of reform – giving schools greater freedom but also holding them more accountable for their actions. And the numbers speak for themselves.

The proportion of children in good or outstanding schools has risen from 66% in 2010, to nearly 90% today. Only 58% of six-year-olds were able to read words fluently in 2012. By 2019, the figure had risen to 82%.

I've made it one of my five priorities to help students get the most from their education locally.

Whether that's helping our local schools win investment - like The Lenham School to get more classroom space through the School Rebuilding Programme, or Queen Elizabeth Grammar, Sheldwich and Graveney Primaries to get improvements through the Condition Improvement Fund.

Whether that's supporting better standards locally – like the brilliant Snowfields Academy in Bearsted which caters for students on the autistic spectrum and was recently rated Outstanding by Ofsted.

Or whether it's bringing opportunities to students thinking about the next step – like my Maidstone Apprenticeship Fair.

As a government we're working hard to put technical and vocational education on an equal footing with traditional academic routes. While university can be a good option it's far from the only one, and apprenticeships are a fast-track to develop skills while working and earning.

The Fair is taking place this year on Friday 8 March at Maidstone Leisure Centre, and we've got over 1,600 students coming to meet companies from Amazon to Shepherd Neame. Please do mention it to anyone you think might be interested. There's information about all of this on my website, and please do get in touch with me if I can do anything to support local students and schools.
